Claim Objections

1. Claim 4 is objected to because of the following informalities: Claim 4 is written as being dependent on claim 4. The examiner thinks claim 4 is supposed to be dependent on claim 3. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 3-4, 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because MPEP Sec 2106 says "Since a computer program is merely a set of instructions capable of being executed by a computer, the computer program itself is not a process and Office personnel should treat a claim for a computer program, without the computer-readable medium needed to realize the computer program's functionality, as nonstatutory functional descriptive material".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Corel Wordperfect version 6.1.

3. As per claim 1, Corel Wordperfect Version 6.1 discloses a method for displaying character strings on GUI environment provided by a computer program (page 3, wordperfect program), comprising the steps of: a) providing an executable program (wordperfect is an executable program); b) providing a text file (example.wpd) including said character strings and being openable with said executable program (page 8); c) executing said executable program (opening wordperfect starts the program); d) opening the text file (example, page 3) and retrieving said character strings from the executable program (page 3); displaying the character strings included in the opened text file (page 3).

4. As per claim 2, Corel Wordperfect discloses where said text file further includes a search key (page 5) and wherein said opening and displaying comprises the steps of: searching said search key (page 5 and 9); retrieving the character strings in said text file when said search key enabled is detected in said searching (page 5 and 9); displaying the retrieved character strings (page 7); and displaying character strings embedded in said executable program when the search key disabled is detected in said searching (when the search key is disabled the character strings will still be displayed).

5. As per claims 3, 5, 7, Corel Wordperfect discloses a code for defining said GUI environment (the program for wordperfect is made from computer code); a code for opening a text file (example) including said character strings (page 3); and a code for displaying character strings described in said opened text file (page 3).

6. As per claims 4, 6, 8, Corel Wordperfect discloses further comprising a default character string and wherein said code for opening a text file and said code for displaying comprise: a code for searching a search key of a text file including a selected character string (page 6 and 9); a code for displaying said selected character string when said search key to be enabled is detected (page 7); and a code for displaying said default character string when said search key to be disabled is detected (the default character string is whatever string was displayed on the screen).

7. As per claim 9, Corel Wordperfect discloses a method for creating a computer program including control-related character strings, including the steps of; a) creating a text file describing said character strings (page 3); and b) creating a program file describing a code for opening said text file (page 3 and 8).

8. As per claim 10, Corel Wordperfect discloses wherein said creating a text file comprises creating a text file (example, page 3) including a selected character string and a search key (page 6); and wherein said creating a program file comprises creating a program file including a default character string (page 3) and a code for shifting control to said selected character string when said search key to be enabled is detected (Page 6) and giving control to said default character string when said search key to be disabled is detected (once the search key is disabled the whatever is displayed is the default character string).

9. As per claim 11, Corel Wordperfect discloses a structure of a computer program including at least one character string related to computer control, including; a code for opening a text file including said at least one character string (page 3 and 8); and a code for using said at least one character string described in said opened text file to control said computer (if the string is used as a macro, this would have computer control).

10. As per claim 12, Corel Wordperfect discloses a default character string and wherein said code for opening a text file comprises a code for searching a search key of a text file including a selected character string (page 6 and 9); and wherein said code for using at least one character string comprises a code for using said selected character string to control said computer when said search key to enabled is detected (page 7, if string is written as a macro) and a code for using said default character string to control said computer when said search key to be disabled is detected (if string is written as a macro).
